What are World Gifts?

An alternative gift scheme – a catalogue full of gifts that make a lasting difference

Gifts work in two ways: something attractive for a friend or relative and a real gift given, by a CAFOD partner, to someone in the developing world

Water for a family £30

A gift of fresh clean water.

A whole family can soak up the benefits of having fresh water for drinking, cooking and washing without the risk of potentially fatal, waterborne diseases.

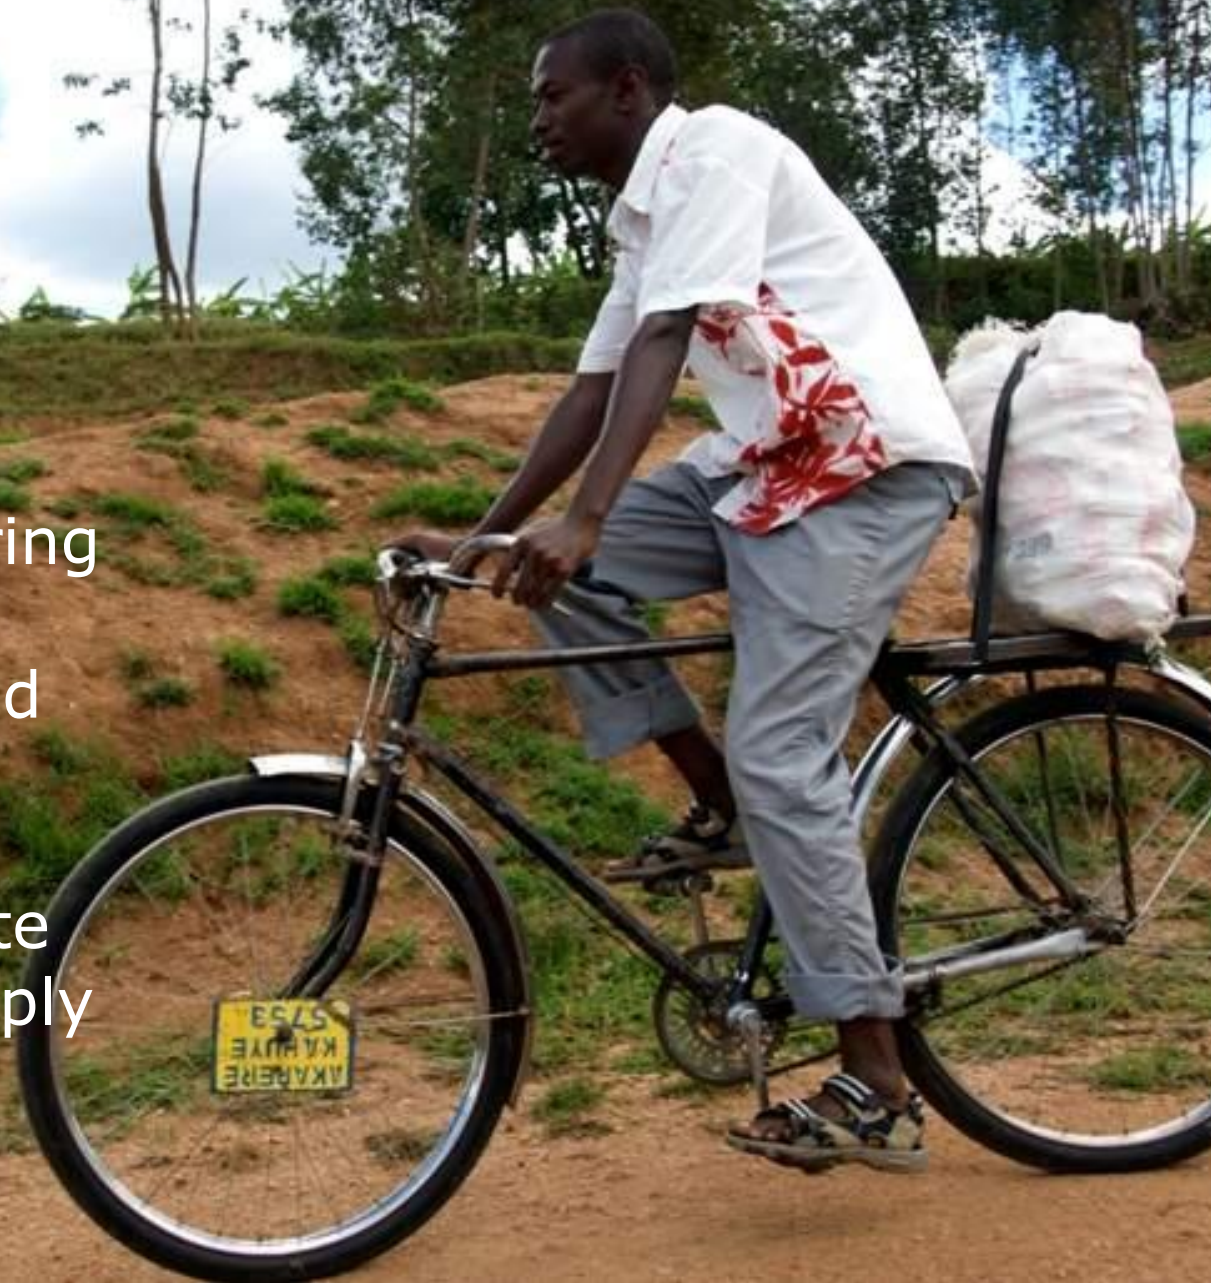

Teach someone to read £10

Reading can open so many doors – education, work, pleasure and self improvement – and it's never too late to learn. This gift can pay to train adult literacy teachers and provide books.

Bicycle £50

A bicycle can help a community worker bring life-saving medical treatment and care, or vital support and counselling, to people living in remote areas where help simply isn't available.

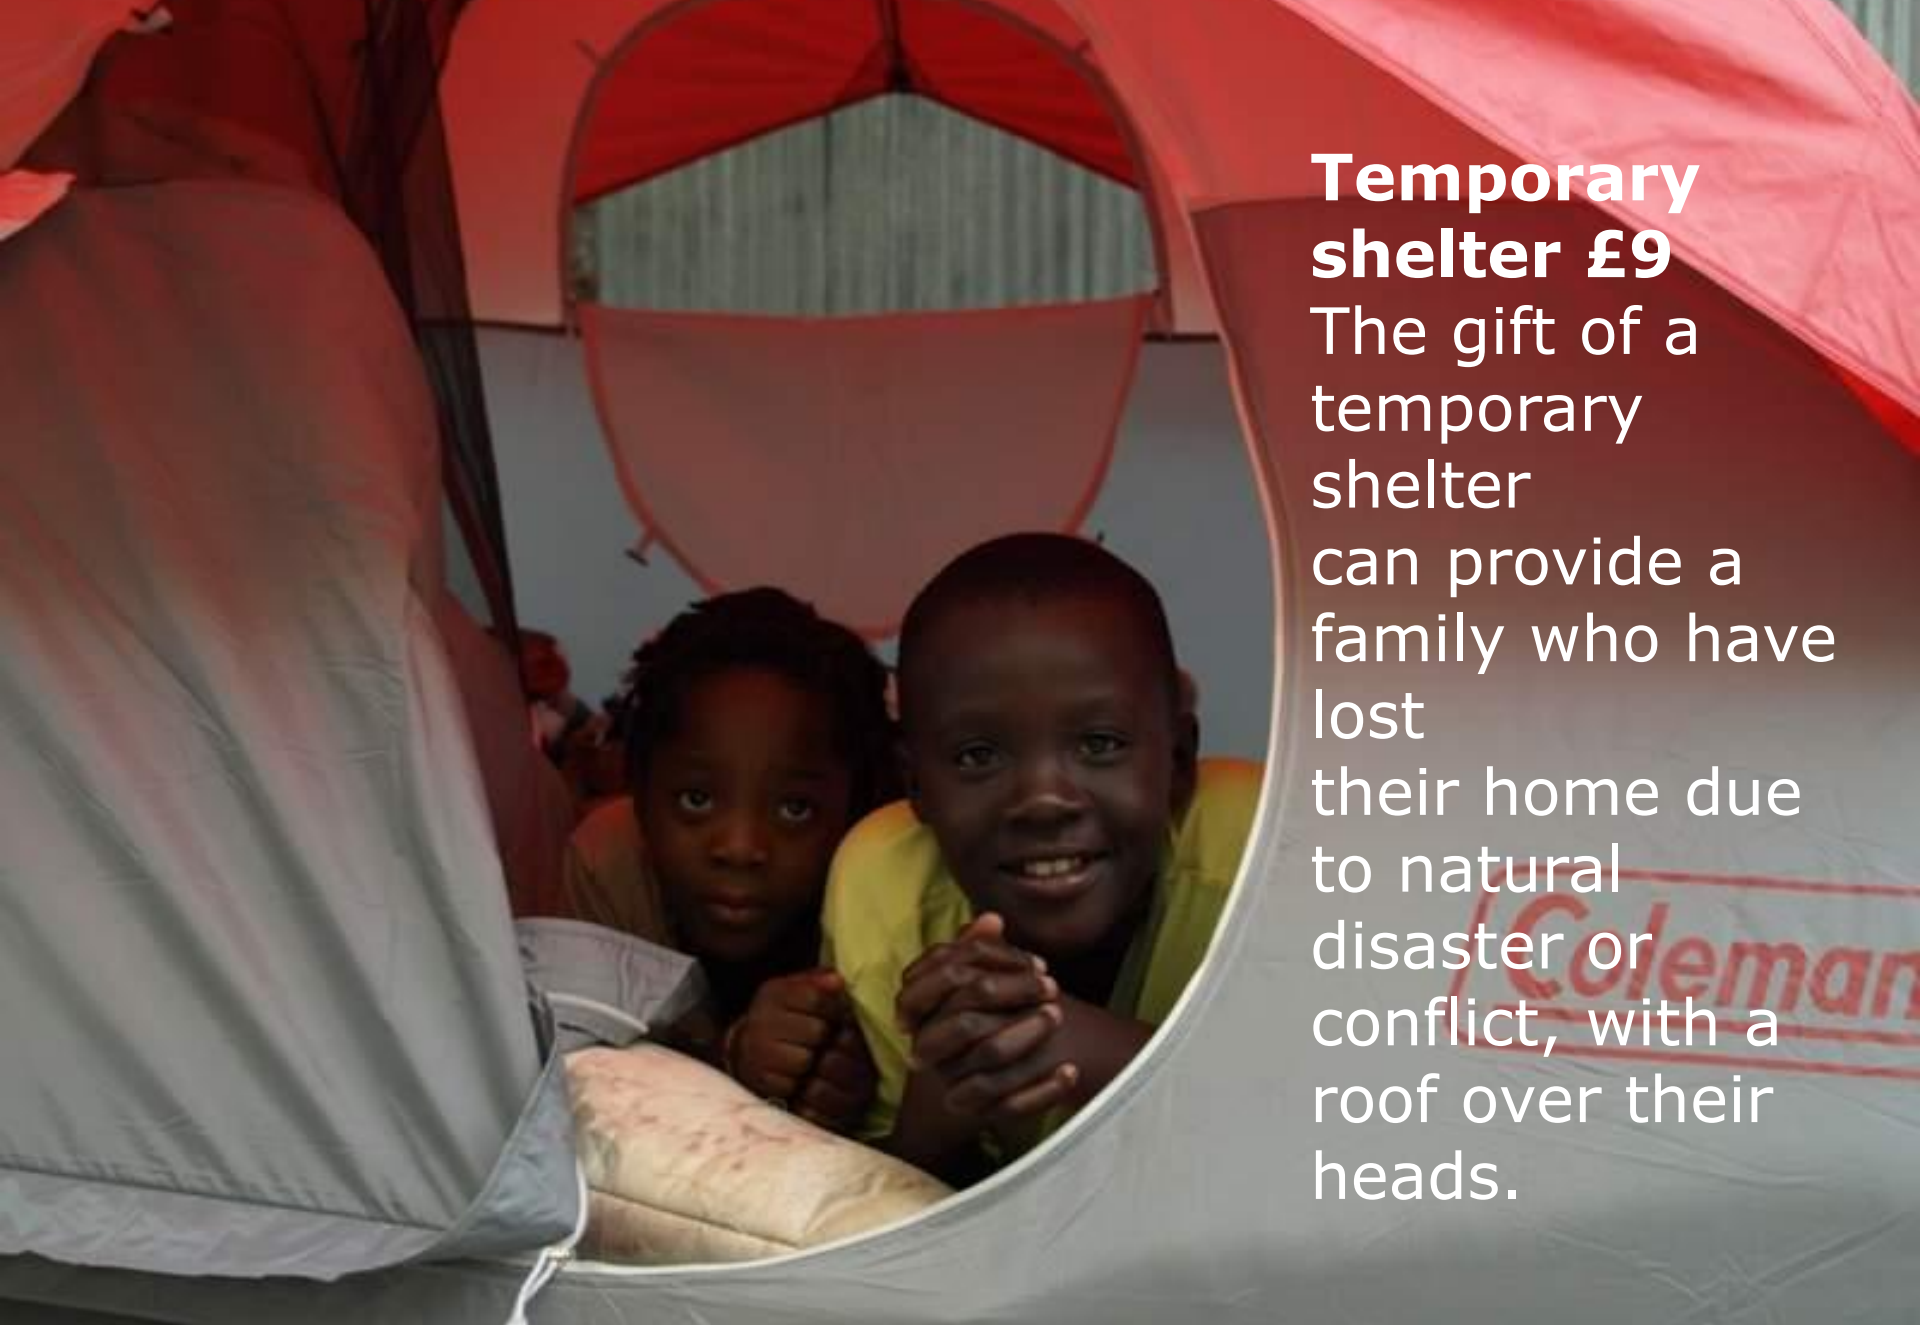

Mother and baby care £30

Inspired by students from St Joseph's Catholic College in Bradford.

Training birth attendants in pre- and post-natal care can give a new mum and her baby a much better chance of survival.

This gift can also pay for new equipment and vaccines to give babies a much safer, healthier start in life.

Temporary shelter £9

The gift of a temporary shelter can provide a family who have lost their home due to natural disaster or conflict, with a roof over their heads.
